Shikima Hinds... bytes and brides

Travel and technology have long enjoyed a symbiotic relationship, but the relationship is set to get even closer this month when Shikima Hinds (along with partner Carmel Legros) launches Island Bride Jamaica. The company's offerings include an interactive online resource that positions Jamaica as the premier wedding destination.

"Jamaica is one of the top five places for destination weddings in the world and over 5,000 destination weddings take place on our shores every year," says Hinds, managing director of Island Bride Jamaica. Visiting the website, surfers are greeted with an illustration of the globe and the words "One World" flash across the screen... a clear indication that Hinds means business since the company will have a public relations officer based in Miami and is set to collaborate with international wedding publications. It's called reaching the globe with two simple words, 'I do'!
